CS 696 – Writing Intensive Paper
Internet Addiction
Due: Feb 11, 2016

Name:_____________________________________________________________

Your assignment is to provide an answer to the question of "What is Internet Addiction?" This question is relevant to the class because when we design software we should be aware of its social consequences.

Your paper that answers the question should be broken up into several parts, including an abstract, an introductory section, a background section including different views of the question gleaned from appropriate articles you've read, a section discussing your conclusions and a concluding section summarizes the question, your answer and comments on how to treat the problem. Your paper should also include a bibliography.

Your paper must be not more than four pages long (not including the bibliography) long and written using Word (or a Word equivalent) in a 12pt font. You should stay away from using quotes, unless necessary and short. Thoughts from others should, in general, appear in your words with the appropriate citation.

I would encourage you to use Wikipedia as a starting point on your quest for information about the question, but your paper should be based on readings found elsewhere (readings cited in Wikipedia that you use are fine). Not doing so will affect my perception of your effort.

A solution handed in late is accessed a 20% penalty. Your homework must be passed in BEFORE class begins – otherwise it’s late. A solution passed in after the class following it’s due date will be given a 0 grade.
